AT THE KENTUCKY.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with Thanksgiving Matinee DePew-Burdette Stock Company. Saturday night and Matinee—Fantana.

Arthur Dunn Scores a Hit.

Arthur Dunn, the little comedian of "The Runaways" fame, is better known to Paducahans since his appearance here last night in Herbert Hall Winslow's "Little Joker." Mr. Dunn, besides being so diminutive as to attract amusing attention, is a comedian of exceptional ability, with a style all his own, a voice as bad as George Cohan's and a play that is meritorious. The music of "The Little Joker" is catchy, the chorus well trained and pretty and the principals above the average. Untoward circumstances marred the performance last night, but the audience understood. Miss Marie Glazier, the principal female support, is not in the caste, having recently recovered from typhoid fever, and three girls are in hospitals in the south, while the rest of the company suffers with bad colds. The audience was more than well pleased and little Arthur Dunn may be assured of big houses hereafter in Paducah.

DePew-Burdette Stock.

For a second engagement this season, bringing a reorganized cast, and some new plays, the DePew-Burdette Stock company, which broke the record for attendance at The Kentucky a month ago and the house record for popular price receipts on the week, opens tonight with "A Man of Mystery." This piece made a great hit during the previous engagements and the opening bill is in deference to the expressed wishes of many patrons of the popular price shows. Tonight, as usual ladies will be admitted free to reserved seats accompanying a paid admission. If the seats are secured before 5 o'clock.

"Fantana" Saturday.

There are numerous catchy musical numbers in "Fantana," all given with tasteful and beautiful stage environment. There is a song in the second act, "Just my Style" that is so simple that it is easily caught, and it has a lifting air that makes it the most popular number of the score. There are other songs, however, that go far to make "Fantana's" musical success. William Blaisdell plays the part of Hawkins, the valet, and it is a rich part as he is seen in his various characters, mostly ludicrous. Little Georgia Bryton, who long ago won a distinctive place in musical comedy, is a large factor in the fun. The other roles are in the hands of such well known players as George Whyte, Charles Burham, Joseph Miller, James McArthur, Henry Dyer, Miss Lily, Hazel Sellman, Marie Atkinson, Marie Hampton, Jane Gray, Virginia Millman, Frances Sears and a chorus of fifty. Fantana will be presented here for the first time with matinee and evening performances.

Richard Mansfield will play "Pere Gynt" on his engagement in Paducah. The overwhelming majority of answers to Manager Roberts' query was for the new production.

Blanche Walsh Is Married.

WHITE LEADER

OF BAND OF HEAD HUNTERS IN PHILIPPINES.

Frank Cook Owns Big Hemp Plantation and Savages Are His Willing Slaves.

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—Frank C. Cook has arrived here from Manila, a passenger on the United States army transport Logan. He comes back to his native land after a seven years' sojourn there among the wild tribes of Mindanao. He brings with him stories savages who looked upon a white man for the first time when they saw him.

Cook seven years ago was a reckless adventurer, a soldier of fortune. He is now a leader of a tribe of willing savages, owner of a big plantation and a man of wealth.

One day pushed aside the jungle undergrowth to gaze into the faces of a horde of painted savages he was startled. But the savages were more frightened than he. They fled at sight of him, it took some time, but finally Cook became friendly with the timid tribesmen.

Eventually he became their leader. He led them in their tribal fights. He adjusted their differences; he entered into their customs. But he refused to eat dog. Instead, he subsisted on herbs and vegetables. He built a small village and in the end taught the natives husbandry. Now Cook is the owner of a hemp plantation and the natives are his willing slaves.

Being new to the business and not quite up on his lines in the "Ragged Hero" as presented at the Broadway theater, East St. Louis, Nyx, the dash ing steed that brings the hero into the assistance of the hero, jumped over the footlights, trailing a buggy after him. Miss Frankie McKane, the heroine, was thrown from the buggy and knocked unconscious. The audience became panicky and three women fainted.

| St. Louis | 9.0 | 0.1 | fall |
| Mt. Vernon | 29.2 | 0.8 | fall |
| Paducah | 32.8 | 0.5 | rise |

The rise in the river here in the last 24 hours indicates that a fall may be expected in the next few days. The gauge registered a rise of only 0.5 since yesterday, the stage this morning being 32.8. Business at the wharf this morning was fair.

The Scotia left today. Captain Peck in command, for the first trip that boat has made in these waters. The Scotia went up the Cumberland river after a tow of ties. When the Scotia came to Paducah from Iowa several months ago, she was a worn out side-wheeled boat. At the docks, she was transformed into a modern stern wheel towboat.

The Lydia arrived today from the Tennessee river with a tow of ties.

The Martha Hennen left this morning for Cincinnati with two barges of staves.

The Russell Lord left this morning for the Ohio river after a tow of ties for the Ayer-Lord Tie company.

The towboats are experiencing much trouble in loading the ties during the extremely high water. When the river is low, the ties can be loaded on the barges, by sliding them down the banks on a chute. Now the river is too high to make a chute and the ties have to be "toted" into the barges. As labor is none to plentiful with the towboats, this is accomplished only by much profanity and considerable hard work.

For some reason unknown to the local river observer, the report of the stage at Davis Island Dam has not been sent for two weeks, in the daily bulletin of river stages.

The Georgia Lee will leave Cincinnati tomorrow for Memphis arriving here Saturday.

The Pavonia left today for the Tennessee river after a tow of ties. The Clyde arrived this morning at 4 o'clock and left at 7:30 for Joppa to unload lumber. The Clyde will lie up on the return from Joppa.

The Chattanooga will leave Louisville Thursday for this point, and will then proceed to Chattanooga, where she will enter the Chattanooga-Cairo trade as forecasted in this column several months ago. Mr. B. Berryman, the local pilot did not go to Louisville as expected, after the Chattanooga.

The Joe Fowler brought two fine new skiffs for the Lydia Monday.

The Saltito will arrive today from the Tennessee river and proceed to St. Louis with a load of lumber.

The Dick Fowler had the "Little Joker" company on the trip to Cairo this morning.

The John S. Hopkins was today's Evansville packet.

The Gate City will receive a new wheel at the dry docks and may be sold to Paducah parties who are dickering for it.

One of the "Model" barges of several brought from Vicksburg to the dry docks to be repaired, was raised today. A "Model" barge differs from the regulation barge in that one end is pointed like a steamboat. They usually are much better built
